We are looking for full-time and direct hires for:

Director Marketing, Communications & Brand (m/f/d)

Your duties...

- Development, coordination and implementation of a comprehensive communication concept with the aim of building strong global brands in the healthcare/biotech/medtech sector
- Supporting and embedding the commercialization through online marketing campaigns and classic communication
- Creating awareness in the various direct and indirect target groups in cooperation with other specialist departments as well as external service providers (PR, employer branding, etc.)
- Cooperation with the commercialization and medical affairs departments as well as support of the US parent company with regard to investor relations activities
- Representing the company and supporting the teams at international meetings and events

Your profile...

- Have completed a Master's degree in marketing, communication, economics, journalism or similar disciplines
- 15 years of professional experience in the above-mentioned fields and have already led brand building in fast-growing companies
- Have the ability to create compelling and impactful stories around products and brands and, most importantly, execute them creatively and memorably
- Have knowledge of medical devices, healthcare, biotech and/or pharma, and ideally another area of business as well, including investor relations
- Willing to travel to a certain extent
- Business fluent in English and German verbal and written is a must

...Our compensation package offers you...

- An exciting work environment with start-up mentality, resources of a mid-sized NASDAQ listed company with a potentially disruptive technology and therapy platform and aggressive growth
- An employment contract of unlimited duration
- Attractive and flexible working conditions including remote work options
- A competitive salary package including variable performance-based options for upside income and a highly attractive incentive stock option program
